TWO CENTS

S. DAVIDSON HERRON TO BE AT NEMACOLIN COUNTRY CLUB

Will Appear in Foursome on Sunday Afternoon Next
On New Links

INVITATION TO ALL GOLFERS

E. Ellsworth Giles, secretary of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association, who is the architect and builder of the new 18-hole Nemacolin Country Club golf course at Beallsville, is providing a treat for the members and their friends Sunday afternoon October 17th.

A quartet of nationally known golfers from Pittsburgh will arrive in Beallsville and in company with Mr. Giles will inspect the new course. After lunch these players will engage in a four-ball match, using the temporary course.

The headliner of the foursome will be none other than S. Davidson Herron, Oakmont, former champion of the United States. The other members will be George A. Ormiston of Oakmont, President of the W. P. G. A., and a figure of national prominence; Robert L. James of the Allegheny Country Club, last year's champion of Western Pennsylvania, and Richard C. Long of Stanton Heights, who is well known in this end of the state.

The Nemacolin Country Club course is fast shaping into one of the finest 18-hole links in this section of the country, and the coming of so distinguished a golfer as S. Davidson Herron and the other Pittsburghers will attract the golfing public of this end of the state to Nemacolin. Every golfer everywhere is invited Sunday afternoon.

A number of Charleroi's leading citizens are members of this club, many of whom will take advantage of the occasion to witness so many distinguished golfers in action over their home course.

Notice.

All ex-soldiers, sailors and marines are respectfully invited to partake in Memorial exercises of tribute to our deceased comrade Harry Welsh Saturday October 16, at 9 a. m. High Mass will be held at St. Jerome's Catholic Church. Men will assemble at Municipal building at 8:15 a. m. Let us not forget our duty to our deceased comrade. Special meeting of G. R. Craft Post No. 256 Veterans of Foreign Wars in North Charleroi Borough building. Friday evening, October 15, at 7:30 p. m.

By Order of Commander,
J. P. Lauderbaugh.

Locals Meet Washington High Tomorrow Afternoon

This Saturday afternoon the Charleroi High School football team will play the most important game on its schedule when it meets the team from Washington at the ball grounds. The team from the county seat is the stumbling block over which the locals must jump in order to win the football championship of the valley. With the Washington game on the right side of the ledger the passage to the championship goal will be considerably cleared for the local team. The C. H. S. boys need your support, and especially in the game this Saturday. Washington has a good team this year and the locals will have to extend themselves to win. The Mail urges everyone to attend this game, who can possibly do so, and cheer as you never have before. This game bids fair to be the most hotly contested one that has taken place at the ball park for some time, and it will be worth your while to attend it.

Everyone knows that cheering is of great value especially in a hard fought game, so in order that everyone may do their part at the game tomorrow we have secured the following yells from the high school cheer leaders, Hardie Albright and Aubrey Daniels:

SPECIAL MUSIC FOR YOUNG PEOPLE'S RALLY

John H. Clutter, president of the Young People's Society of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church announces that the special music for the Young People's Rally to be held in that church this evening at 7:45 will be unusually pleasing. The Misses Ruth King and Mary McKee of Monongahela will be heard in numbers and Miss Emma Clutter and John F. Bowman of Charleroi, will sing a duet. The Rev. John Burson, pastor, will conduct the devotional exercises and lead the song service, which will be one of the attractions, especially under Rev. Burson's direction. Elmer Selby, Wilkinsburg will preside. The Committee is to be congratulated on their selection of speakers the Rev. Raymond Kistler pastor of the Southside Presbyterian church and A. H. Brownell, vice president of the State Christian Endeavor Union, both of Pittsburgh. A large audience is expected. Another Christian Endeavor meeting is to be held in Washington, Pa., at the same time.

SECOND IN SERIES OF "LIFE TALKS"

Dr. Harry J. Repman delivered an interesting address to the students of the high school, at the regular chapel exercises, held in the auditorium, this morning. The speaker, in the presentation of his subject, which was "General Medicine and Surgery," called attention to, and emphasized three points which were being given much consideration these days—sanitation, hygiene and prevention. The value of these were clearly shown in the great world war and their general application throughout the country could not fail to improve the health of any community. Dr. Repman spoke deprecatingly of the efforts being made in several different state legislatures towards the passage of laws in the interest of "Compulsory Health Insurance." He stated that Dr. Finegan, state superintendent of education, appeared before the members of the State Medical Association, at its recent convention in Pittsburgh, and said that hygiene was to be substituted in the school curriculum for physiology, and that 2,000 special teachers would be necessary to teach this particular subject. Dr. Repman's address was brimful of the best of advice to those interested in the adoption of medicine as a life work, and he was given an attentive hearing. In closing his remarks, the speaker made the prediction that medicine of the future would, in a large measure, be under the influence of the state.

COX'S STATEMENT TO LABOR PROVED TO BE GROSSLY INACCURATE

Claim He Had "Never Pressed a Soldier Into an Industrial Controversy" Not True.

USED OHIO MILITIA TWICE

Question Not About Merits of Strike or Need for Military, but as to Truthfulness.

By WILLIAM HOSTER.

Columbus, O.—Governor James M. Cox's boasted labor record has been shattered by his own official act. Claiming that he had "never pressed a soldier into an industrial controversy," the record of his action as governor of Ohio in mobilizing the National Guard of this state for service in the steel strike of 1919 has been produced in flat contradiction of his assertion.

Not once, but on two occasions was the Ohio guard, at an expense of $25,000 to the people of Ohio, called into service and sent to Akron and held in readiness for action in nearby Canton. The question is not as to the merits of the strike or as to the necessity for the presence of the guard within striking distance of Canton, but concerns wholly the truthfulness of Governor Cox's statement, obviously made to win favor among the workmen. The facts as brought out in the speech of Republican State Chairman George H. Clark, formally opening the campaign at Columbus, are as follows:

Ordered Guard Out Twice. After the steel strike had progressed for some days, with more or less disorder, Governor Cox on September 23, 1919, suddenly ordered the mobilization of the guard at Akron. A period of quiet followed, and the troops were withdrawn. And then again suddenly on October 25 the guard was once more mobilized and sent to Akron, and while it lay there at that strategic point awaiting a summons into action staff officers representing Governor Cox kept close watch on the situation in Canton.

In his speech at Wheeling, W. Va., on the night of August 14 Governor Cox said:

"For six years I have been in executive authority in the great industrial state of Ohio. During all this time I have never pressed a soldier into an industrial controversy."

The question is, did Governor Cox tell the truth? Answering this question, Chairman Clark in his Columbus speech displayed to his audience a photographic copy of Special Order No. 52 issued from the Adjutant General's department of the State of Ohio, dated Columbus, October 25, 1919, which designated certain officers for immediate active service and paragraph 4 of which reads:

Facts Presented.

"In anticipation of the development of a rioting condition at Canton, O., the Governor of Ohio has deemed it necessary to assemble a sufficient number of state troops at Akron, O., to be held in readiness to render aid to the civil authorities at Canton, O., and has so directed the Adjutant General of Ohio, who, pursuant to such order, directs Colonel Benson W. Hough to proceed without delay to Akron, O., to take command of all state troops upon arrival at Akron, O., and to hold them in readiness for duty, awaiting further orders."

The order is signed by the Adjutant General and counter-signed in these words, "By command of Governor Cox." Did Governor Cox tell the truth to the workmen?

Summing up this documentary proof, Mr. Clark produced photographic copies of headlines from Canton, O., newspapers of concurrent date, which read: "State troops mobilizing for duty here. All available companies are ordered out." And, "Governor orders troops for duty here, Ohio soldiers reporting to armories following trouble."

Truth Should Be Known.

The surprising thing about it all is that Governor Cox in his Wheeling speech should have made so flat an assertion when all of the facts with regard to his mobilization of the guard were still fresh in the public mind, at least in Ohio. Of course it is not to be expected that workmen elsewhere in the United States would be familiar with the circumstances, and it was for that reason that State Chairman Clark in his speech stressed the necessity for the people all over the country to be informed that Governor Cox's assertion that he "never pressed a soldier into an industrial controversy" was absolutely at variance with the truth.

PUBLICATION of these official facts has utterly confounded the assertion of Governor Cox's election, who is making a special plea to the workmen on the basis of his West Virginia speech. The revelations as to Mr. Cox's mobilization of the troops are being compared with the sworn statements of liquor league contributors to the gubernatorial campaign fund in refutation of his statement that "the state has never contributed one dollar to any of my campaigns." In both cases the point is made that the issue is not as to the merit of his mobilization of the troops, on the one hand, or as to the status of the wet and dry question, on the other hand, but that the real issue is as to the degree of truth and accuracy absolutely necessary in one who seeks to be president of the United States.

We Taste With the Nose, Really.

The sensation of taste, while of common and constant experience, is highly complicated in its nature. What is commonly called taste is not a single sensation at all, but rather a complex of sensations. In addition to the actual feeling of the apparatus properly so called, the sense of taste the tongue receives impressions of various other sorts, all of which go to make up the complexity. As usually recorded in the consciousness, the taste of any substance has to do with its heat or coolness, perhaps with a mild amount of pain, certainly with astringency or acidity—which are in themselves further complexities of thermal and tactile sensations—and above all with smell. The reader will probably agree that ice cream and coffee are entirely different from their true selves when served at inappropriate temperatures, and it is a matter of record that a person of the keenest taste may make the most ludicrous errors if asked, blindfolded and with his nose stopped, to identify substances placed in the mouth.—Boston Post.

Starting the Baby Right.

There are various methods of ensuring good luck to an infant. In rural England, if its right hand is bound up for a short period soon after birth it will surely become wealthy. The Spaniards sweep their children's faces with purple hedges to assure good fortune, while to keep the Irish baby from turning a belt of woman's hair is placed about it, and to achieve a similar object Romanian mothers tie red ribbons around the ankles of their offspring. In Holland garlic, salt, bread and steak are put in the cradle of the new arrival, while to protect their babies the mothers of Wales put in their cradles a pair of tongs or a knife. In Iceland, when the first tooth makes its appearance, a lamb is presented to the child, to be its "very own."

"Hear! Hear!"

It is reported that Great Britain's first lady M. P.'s first words in debate were "Hear, hear," and certainly they were appropriate to the occasion, for it was a woman who first used the phrase. II Samuel 20:16 tells us: "Then cried a wise woman out of the city, 'Hear, hear.'" Another lady's first words in parliament were equally brief. This was the countess Grey who was then an infant. She was being shown around the house of parliament by her father, Lord Selborne, and near the entrance to the chamber she was held up to a window to have a peep at the debaters inside. At that moment the swing-door flew open and members were startled to hear a shrill, childish treble crying, in tones of delight, "I see! I see!"

Brewing Tea in Tibet.

It is in Tibet that the art of making tea is really understood. To begin with, the tea comes in bricks, brought by caravan from China. Mixed with the tea leaves are usually a few small trills, which help to prove that it is genuine stuff. A piece is broken from a brick, ground to fine powder in a mortar and boiled in water for five minutes. A little salt is added, says the Kansas City Star. The fluid then is poured through a bamboo strainer into a wooden churn. A piece of butter and some parched barley meal are contributed, and the mixture is churned for a minute or so. The tea now is poured into a teapot and is ready to be drunk. Each partaker draws from the bosom of his gown a wooden bowl to serve as a cup.

English Judges' Robes.

There is as much difference in the gowns worn by British legal lights as there is in their wigs. The robes of a high court judge are gorgeous and imposing. They are made of rich silk and trimmed with ermine. Then, too, high court judges carry, but never wear, large three-cornered hats. Judges who preside over lower courts wear much less gorgeous robes, and do not carry three-cornered hats. A barrister's gown is made of black alpaca or some similar material known as "stuff" in the legal profession. It is only when a barrister has become a K. C. that he may don a gown of silk. For this reason a king's counsel is often referred to as a "silk."

The steamship Republic, an American liner, was rammed and sunk by the steamship Florida, near Nantuxet Lightship on January 23, 1909. The Marconi operator, Jack Blinn, sent out the "C. Q. D." code signal then used in calling for aid, and several steamships quickly answered and steamed to the spot. They saved 741 persons. This was the first use of wireless to save lives of passengers on an ocean liner. By a strange coincidence this event happened on the eve of the seventy-first anniversary of the day on which Samuel Morse first publicly exhibited and demonstrated his code of "dots and dashes" now known as the Morse alphabet. The exhibition took place at the New York university on January 24, 1838.

The Timid Child.

The timid child is recognized at a glance. He is lacking in self-confidence and initiative. What he needs most is to lose himself in the games and recitations. This is the pupil who is not able to recite—seldom responds for fear of criticism. Such children as these must gradually be brought to the foreground by the judicious teacher.—Montreal Herald.

TRACE JAZZ MUSIC TO CHINA

Book of Ceremonies of That Country Deals With Musical Criticism to the Point.

The hunt for the origin of jazz has led to the African jungle and to the music of cannibal feasts and orgiastic dances. But, further back it can be traced to the beginnings of civilization in China itself. Confucius, who lived nearly 2,500 years ago, edited a book of ceremonies called the "Li Ki." The book of ceremonies was a venerable Chinese classic long before Confucius gave his attention to it. The sayings in the "Li Ki" represent a viewpoint of musical criticism in China which perhaps corresponds to the date assigned by the Jewish chronology for the Garden of Eden. The "Li Ki" describes music as a powerful influence for good or evil, and pictures the prehistoric syncretism as follows:

"The airs of King go to wild excess and debauch the mind; those of Sung speak of stoutheadedness and those of Wei are strenuous and fast and perplex the mind; and those of Kih are violent and depraved and make the mind arrogant. The airs of these four states all stimulate passions, desire and are injurious to virtue."

If not jazz, what else falls in with the description? King Sung, Wei and Kih—all their scores have been lost. Only the monotonous drum beat which they doubtless contributed to prehistoric jazz remains in modern Chinese music.—Telado News-Bee.

THE LANGUAGE OF FLOWERS

It Dates Back to the Time of the Ancient Romans, and Probably Is Much Older.

It was a custom of the Romans to paint a rose on the cheek of the banqueting host, signifying that what was told at the feast was not to be repeated. From this custom originated the expression, sub rosa, the Detroit News recalls.

The rose is the queen of love and beauty and is the most eloquent of all in the language of the flowers. The red rose is a token of love and the white of purity. A moss rosebud is a confession of love, while a rose leaf says, "You may hope." A white rose signifies, "I am worthy of you," and the yellow rose asks, "Are you jealous?"

The yellow buttercup is dedicated to the memories of childhood and riches. The Greeks and Romans used one variety of buttercup as a remedy for leprosy. It was also said that the root was a sure cure for insanity if it was gathered at the wane of the moon, wrapped in linen and carried around the neck of the afflicted person.

Pained and Surprised.

At the time it was more painful than funny, but the years leave only a recollection of my intense surprise when I bit into what I thought was a bright red apple.

Always I had loved apples, and one day when I saw a dish of bright red objects in the pantry, I took a couple of the largest, and silently left the house—with what happy anticipation.

Safe in the back yard I proceeded to take a large bite of a red pepper. Such shrill screams of agony as reached my mother's ears. She rushed to the rescue to find me, not content with having filled my mouth with the fiery pepper, rubbing frantically at my face and eyes.

Not knowing that oil and not water should be used to remove the burning sensation, she dumped me into the bathtub, and started to scold. It was many a week before I again appropriated what did not belong to me.—Exchange.

Electric Hatching of Chicks.

A third of a million chickens a season is the proposed capacity which a customer of the Electric Power company of Portland, Ore., intends to attain in his electrically operated chicken farm known as "Homer's." His output this season will be in the neighborhood of 100,000 chickens, as compared with 45,000 for last year. This farm started with one small electric incubator in 1915 and now is equipped to operate on a large scale, having a single incubator with a capacity of 20,000 eggs. The total connected load for this plant consists of 235 kilowatts of heating and 3 kilowatts of lighting. For emergency service, contains the Electrical Review, a 20-kilowatt direct current generator is installed at the farm and is so arranged that it may be driven from the owner's truck.

A plan for seeing strange sights comes from France, in the announcement of the Compagnie Latécoere. This aerial line will take you from Toulouse, at $350 a m., over the Pyrenees to Barcelona, Spain, by lunch time. Next day you lunch at Malaga, then fly across the Mediterranean to Tangiers. Then you sail above the Atlas mountains to far-away Rabat, a green oasis of the Sahara, or even to Fez, where it is said the company has opened the grand sultan's palace as a hotel. These are indeed the days of magic carpet and the seven-league boots to those who fear not adventure in the air!—The Outlook.

Wanted His Money's Worth.

Mother—Helen's music teacher seems quite impressed with her. It looks to me like a love affair. Father—What's that? Now see here, I'll have that young man understand he's got to do his own singing and not waste his time on a 24-hour.

Keeperless Lighthouse.

Along the coast of Alaska, where it would be difficult to maintain reliable lighthouse keepers, there have been established many automatically flashing beacons, each of which can operate for nearly five months on one charge of gas. A lighthouse with its keeper, alone among the wildest of scenery, is always a romantically interesting mark of progress. A lighthouse without a keeper, however, is perhaps a still greater sign of progress, in that it frees many a man from the temporary necessity of staying where he might not want to be. At first some navigators were a bit slow in getting used to the quickly flashing lights. Because of the rapidity of the flash, one might hardly know whether he was coming to, or going from such a light. In the end, though, these small beacons, which cost only about $1,800 each to install, have greatly aided navigation in Alaskan waters.

Armor.

The invention of some form of protective covering or armor for the body dates back a long way in the history of the world. Homer, in the Iliad, the story of the great siege of Troy by the Greeks, which was written some hundreds of years before the Christian era, has much to say, incidentally, about armor. He describes more than once the full armor of an ancient Greek warrior, greaves, corselet, helmet, shield, sword and spear, and tells us how each article was put on. Greaves are metal or leather protections for the legs, in fact, something very like a pair of modern cricket pads. One contingent of Greeks, at the siege of Troy, seems to have made a specialty of them, for they are constantly referred to as "well-greaved Achaeans."—Christian Science Monitor.

Notre Dame's Famous Gargoyles.

The gargoyles of Notre Dame are commonly associated with the middle ages, and the story of their origin is well known.

old Paris. As a matter of fact, while the stained-glass windows date from the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries, most of the gargoyles were executed under the direction of Viollet le Duc when the cathedral was restored, no earlier than the middle of last century. Writing in 1913, Harry Hens, who is an authority on architectural subjects, declared that "the gargoyles carved at the time of the restoration of Notre Dame are done by an Englishman named Thompson. Although I believe this fact is now remembered by very few."

How Do You Walk?

According to the testimony of foot salarman, the tendency of the average individual to wear out one or other of his boots more quickly than the other. There are all sorts of reasons for this, said the manager of a well-known London shop. "Comes on the right foot, for instance, mean that the left foot is going to be more heavily worn. I have known cases where one boot will be worn out two months before the other shows any signs of the well-known theory of a difference in length between the right and left leg. The habit of stepping off moving trains and trams also bears heavily on the left foot."

Good Humor.

The other day, a ragged, barefoot boy ran down the street after a marble, with so jolly an air that he set every one that he passed into a good humor; one of these persons who had been delivered from more than usually black thoughts, stopped the little fellow and gave him some money, with this remark: "You see what sometimes comes of looking pleased." If he had looked pleased before, he had now to look both pleased and mystified. For my part, I justify this encouragement of smiling rather than of frowning children; I do not wish to try for years anywhere but upon the stage, but I am prepared to deal largely in the opposite commodity.—R. L. Stevenson.

Governor Coolidge says he has not bought a pair of shoes in two years or a suit of clothes in 15 months. He does not mention shirts but it is gratifying to know that he may be able to buy them without conscientious scruples before a great while. Such expectation is based on the reduction of the prices of its products one-third by the biggest of the cotton manufacturing concerns.

The world has been made fairly safe for democracy, but the United States is not as unsafe for bomb-plotting anarchists as it ought to be. The matter ought to receive the continuous attention of the Department of Justice and its detectives. Even the absorbing business of trailing bootleggers should not be allowed to stand in the way.

The best line in any political speech so far is this by Senator Borah at Hartford, Conn.: "I don't think any man ought to be elected President of the United States who thinks six times as much of Great Britain as he does of the United States." A neat reference to the six votes to one that Brother John Bull absent-mindedly accumulated.

Corn is cheaper than coal in Iowa and the farmers propose to burn corn for fuel. Difficulty in getting coal shipments and the high price asked gives the farmer in that state no choice but to use the best means at hand to provide heat for his home.

Most people know the falling dream—the dream in which you take an unexpected plunge, maybe over a cliff or off the roof of a house, and fall, full fall, never reaching the bottom, but awakening with the air rushing through your nostrils and horrible sensations of sinking in your inside. This dream may usually be taken as a warning of some impending trouble, usually pecuniary, but not of a very serious nature. Should, however, one actually arrive at the bottom in one's dream, then some graver misfortune may be looked for—the misfortune not infrequently taking the form of an illness or accident.

Temperature and Plant.
Certain tropical plants and ferns would be found in the frigid zones if the earth's atmosphere possessed a sufficient amount of carbon dioxide to raise its mean temperature a few degrees. The globular form of the earth is responsible for the uneven temperature of different parts of its surface. The effectiveness of temperature upon the growth and development of plant life is readily demonstrated upon the slopes of high mountains, where certain plants seem to flourish almost up to a fixed line and then disappear.

They Speak No More.
My cousin was visiting me from out of the city. We were sitting in the living room one afternoon when we heard a knock at the door. Thinking it was an agent, we decided to sit still, when suddenly a louder rap came, and under that furrows blow the door came open, as it was just pushed to, and there stood my next door neighbor, who had recently moved in. We were so embarrassed we couldn't speak, and she was so mad she went home and has never spoken to us since.—Exchange.

Attractive Coats For Children

"Printzess Cadet" coats designed for the carefree years between eight and fourteen.

Always youth loves the new and with clever interpretation of line and color Printzess designers have modeled these charming "Printzess Cadet" coats to express the carefree spirit of youth in fashion.

Just now when school days are again imminent mothers will be especially interested to hear that we are showing a full line of these practical, stylish coats for girls between the ages of eight and fourteen.

And they are made with every bit as much care as the

"grown-up" Printzess models. For the Printzess label in any garment carries with it a guarantee of lasting style and good workmanship which Printzess tailors are proud to extend to the younger generation of femininity.

We cordially invite the little Miss to call and suggest that she bring mother along in order that she may make a final selection. We also recommend that it be soon for such serviceable and attractive garments are bound to disappear from our show rooms early in the season.

FAU DRY GOODS COMPANY

"Whither Thou Goest"

With all the zest that editors assure us inspires them on the discovery of a new star in the literary firmament (What a fine phrase that is! Almost Biblical in its antiquity). I thumbed the thin, resistant pages of my Bible, eager to come upon other tales of good. I found Jazabel, whose painted face long ago captured the imagination of mankind; Jephthah's daughter, pitifully mourning her virginit; Ruth, pleading for Boaz, and seeking her immortal "Whither thou goest, I will go" to Naomi. And here I stopped to marvel that those words, even in this day of feminism rampant, the words a woman gladly speaks to her lover, should in that far-off time have been spoken by a widow to her mother-in-law, between whom it is a matter of common expectation to find but little love. Who, I wonder, were the first lovers to seize upon their beauty and appropriateness? —Anna Dransom Hilyard in North American Review.

Real "Watered Stock"

The phrase "watered stock" is said to be due to an inspiration of Daniel Drew, although some credit it to James Fisk who, with the late Jay Gould, taught Wall street a few quips and quarks in finance that it had never known before. Rumors were set afloat that before Fisk came into the arena of finance he had taken a flier in the raising of live stock which was sold on the hoof by weight. Just before the cattle, or horses, or hogs were driven on the scales, Fisk contrived to have them gorged with water, he in the meantime, having subjected them to 12 hours' thirst. In this way the weights shot up in a few minutes and an $800 pound steer with five gallons of water absorbed weighed $100 pounds. It is said some one discovered this plan and thereupon the plan was alluded to as "watered stock."

Motto First on Copper Coins.

The motto "In God We Trust" was first used on the copper cent piece issued in 1864, being introduced by James Pollock, the director of the mint, with the approval of Secretary of the Treasury Simon P. Chase. The words also appeared on the 1865 issue of the double eagle, eagle, half eagle, silver dollar, half dollar, and nickel cent pieces in place of the long existing motto of "E Pluribus Unum." In the trade dollar issue of 1873 both mottos were retained, "In God We Trust" appearing on the obverse. The Lincoln cents and silver half dollars at present in circulation bear both mottos.

It seems that after all there was no shortage of sugar, the talk of it merely serving the price boosting purpose.

Younger Generation of Women Said to Look for Utility When Presents Are in Question.

One must mingle with the younger generation to comprehend the changing standards of domestic life. Those things once the heart's desire of women have not lost their charm, we are told. While the proverbial route to a man's heart has not changed its road-bed, and good cooking is still the trademark of a desirable wife, yet anniversary expressions of a husband's love are said to be changing in form.

The new note is utility. This is exemplified by a story that comes to us from one who recently visited a young couple while they discussed their approaching anniversary. "I think I shall get Ruth a necklace," the young husband said. Ruth demurred. What then did she wish, was his query. With the suggestion of a diamond or a piece of mahogany furniture, or some other embellishment for the home.

"If you really insist on a present," she said, "I have always wanted an electric washer and a vacuum cleaner."

This suggests the story of the negro bridegroom who, when the honeymoon waned, brought home a heavily mirrored dressing table and a washbowl. "Now, mummy," he said, "you can sit down in front of this and watch yourself starve to death, or you can use this tub and earn your living!"—Omaha Bee.

IDEAL SERVANTS IN MEXICO

One May Get a Descendant of the Incas and a Friend for Life, for $15 a Month.

Mexico is Utopia for American housewives, for there is no servant problem there, according to Mrs. S. C. Dunlop, wife of the chief engineer of Cia Transcontinental de Petroleo, the Mexican branch of the Standard Oil company.

"Ten years ago I could hire any servant for $2 a month," she said, "and now I have to pay only from $10 to $15. Often in my kitchen I have a descendant of the Incas making my bread, and when a Mexican Indian—who must not be confused with a peon—really attaches himself or herself to you, you have not only a servant, but a friend for life, one who really looks after your interests."

"Of course, in Mexico, as well as anywhere else, the servants stand on their rights." The cook only cooks and does not wash dishes; the chambermaid will have nothing to do with the kitchen; but after all, the wages of the five or six servants do not equal those of one servant in New York.

"I hear my New York friends groaning because the food of the servants costs more than their own table. Now, if you give your Mexican Indian her tortillas (cakes) and her beans with plenty of chili, she is perfectly satisfied and seems a more elaborate diet."

Amusement for Both.

"Marriage—it is wonderful!" gurgled the happy Smith. "It is blissful, joyous! It is heaven! Ah—but I forget," he exclaimed, suddenly serious. "You have found it a very different thing—eh?"

"Yes. Personally I consider marriage a tossup," said Jones.

"Poor fellow, poor fellow!" muttered Smith. "How you manage to put up with that carter of a wife I don't know."

"It might be worse," said Jones. "We have lots of fun."

"How is that?"

"Well you see, when my wife gets into a passion she always hurls things at my head. Every time she hits me she is as pleased as Punch, and every time she misses I'm as pleased as Punch. So between us we are never short of amusement."

Old Schooners Become Barges.

Disposal of large numbers of old schooners, to say nothing of an oversupply of new wood ships, has been a problem for the past few years. River and canal men, meanwhile, have been facing a shortage of barges. Putting these two facts together, Eastern shipbuilders have now evolved a new form of schooner barge, made by removing the upper works and the below-deck cabins and bulkheads of the schooners. Such barges are capacious and have the advantages of speed in towing and seaworthiness for coast work, and if lost from a sea tow can make port with a jury rig. In South America as well as the United States, rebuilt schooners for barge work already are at a premium.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

The second-hand dealers all over Italy have cornered the bronze 10 and 5 centime pieces, which they have melted down and sold as ingots for soldering at two and three times the price the pennies cost them. This has caused a great deal of annoyance, as small change is scarce, and in some of the cafes stamps have been given as change. The government has refused the size of the new 10 and 5 centime pieces, but even that has done little good, so it has now decided to coin the new pennies out of a composition metal which cannot be used as solder if melted.

Tables Turned.

Mr. Knobome—Well I surely can envy the tramps these days.
Mrs. Knobome—And only a few weeks ago you chased several from the front yard.
Mr. Knobome—I know, but just think, they can live in box cars and we can't even get a home to live in.

OLDEST OF STATE MOTTOES

That of Maryland Was Adopted in 1648—Enshrined in History of the Commonwealth.

The Maryland seafarers who propose altering the state motto, "Fatti Maschi Per il Mondo" (No use the old spelling), are proposing to put rough words to what should be sacred. The offensive translation, "Deeds are masculine, words are feminine," is not the only one possible. The secretary of state could readily be directed to give official approval to "manly deeds and womanly words," which would give women a recognition they enjoy in no other state motto.

But the best reason for jealously guarding Maryland's motto is that it is the oldest the nation can boast—the date of its adoption is placed in 1648—and is enshrined with Maryland history to a remarkable degree. Throw away the Baltimore motto and Maryland might as well turn the portrait of George Calvert, first Lord Baltimore, to the wall.

There are other state mottoes that are open to attack. Alabama's "Hore We Ho!" suggests an obvious joke. So does Washington's "By and By." Virginia's motto, "John Bull," is Booth, New York's the rather tawdry declaration by Longfellow which it inspired, and those of several other states—like Kansas' "Ad Astra Per Aspera"—the rhetoric of commencement. While these states clasp to their mottos Maryland may well be boastful of hers and its associations.—New York Evening Post.

HOT "SHOT" FOR NEIGHBOR

Probably Woman Wished She Had Not Irritated Mr. Dobson While He Was Worried.

Mr. Dobson came home early in the evening, but 17 sheets in the wind. He negotiated the steps to his front door on his hands and knees. Finally, when he reached the top, he fished his keys from his pocket without much difficulty, but the keyhole, of course, could not be found.

After several attempts to locate it, in which he failed miserably, he happened to look over his shoulder, and discovered the woman next door watching him.

"Wash you want?" he demanded.

"I don't want anything," she replied, but didn't go away.

The man made another attempt to find the keyhole, but being again unsuccessful turned in disgust and asked the neighbor if she had borrowed the keyhole.

"Of course not. I don't know anything about your keyhole except that you can't find it," said she.

"Well, you've borrowed everything else we've got, so I thought maybe you borrowed our keyhole," came the reply.

Peter and Paul Were in Rome.

According to the evidence and discoveries of two famous archaeologists of Rome, Professors Grossi Condi and Orazio Marucchi, there no longer remains any doubt that the Apostles Peter and Paul both went to Rome and suffered martyrdom there.

That doubt has been raised several times in controversies between various schools of archaeologists.

"The Apostles Peter and Paul," Professor Marucchi said, "did go to Rome. I have found traces of their burial in a catacomb beneath one of the rock on the Appian Way, behind the ancient church of St. Sebastian."

"There are graves in this underground burying place, which of course prove nothing. But there are also writings on the wall, and these writings all invoke the aid of Peter and Paul, described as lying there."

Famous Mine May "Come Back."

The Comstock lode, once known as the richest silver mine in the world, and from which millions of dollars were taken during the height of its fame, is about to come back to its own. For years the lode was almost deserted, and Virginia City, Nev., lived along in a lethargy that included the slow crumbling of its buildings and the rotting of its sidewalks, until what was one of the most colorful, blazing, excitement-gathering towns in the United States, became a monument to dead hopes and a mockery of its former self.

It has been discovered that thousands of tons of low-grade ore now are standing in giant dumps, and yet other thousands of tons resting in the mines themselves, can be made to yield as high as $10 a ton under modern methods of extraction.

As a result of a German professor's discovery that the roots of the ordinary burdock contain as much as 50 per cent of cane sugar, special dredges are now being built for the purpose of harvesting them, reports Popular Mechanics Magazine. The roots grow in thick horizontal masses, and in one part of Germany are believed to underlie everywhere a tract of marshy land comprising 500,000 acres. Though sugar is the product chiefly sought, secondary processes yield alcohol and a nutritive cattle food. From the juice there is made, also, a strong beer resembling porter.

Frivolous Personalities.

"I wonder if Mrs. Gadder knows anything about Plumer?"
"You'd better not mention the subject to her."
"Why not?"
"She says she's not here."

SHOWING GROWTH OF DOLLAR

How Benjamin Franklin's Bequest of $5,000 to Boston Has Increased in a Century.

How the dollar invested under the will of Benjamin Franklin has shown its growth by that first great American statesman's bequest to the City of Boston is a matter of which the city is justly proud. The $5,000 bequest of Benjamin Franklin to the City of Boston, as a fund for the education of the poor, has now grown to $418,836.21. It was the growth of the dollar which was the subject of a lecture given by the Hon. Charles F. Johnson, Mayor of Boston, at the City Hall, last night. The Mayor said that the fund had grown to $418,836.21, and that the interest on the fund had been used to educate the poor of Boston and three fourths of the state.

Let us see how well that dollar of Franklin's has worked. At the end of the first hundred years it had grown to $418,836.21. It was then divided into 100 shares, each worth $4,188.36. The first share was set aside for "public work" and $408,848.15 was divided into 100 shares of $4,088.48 each. The interest on the fund for another hundred years was $1,188,362.15. That was in 1801. On Jan. 1, 1901, this sum had grown to $2,780,175 and at this rate of increase the fund should amount to at least $5,000,000 when the second period is completed, and may be considerably more.

ONE'S JOB MUST COME FIRST

Salary Should Be a Secondary Object for the Man Who Is Anxious to Advance.

I have never known a young man to advance far when he thought much about his salary while at work, or who let that salary have anything to do with the interest he was putting into his job. The job is the chance, the opportunity, to show what you are made of, to show what you have for sale—your ability, your personality.

If you have something unusual for sale you may be sure you have what every employer is always looking for. If you are alert, enthusiastic, original, if you try to stamp everything that goes through your hands with superiority, you may be sure that you will soon find a place at the front with commensurate salary.

On the other hand, the man who drags through just enough work to get by, who gets to his job when he has to and watches the clock for time to go home will not see his salary envelope fatten very rapidly.

Quibbling over one's salary has spoiled many a career. It is not what you are paid for doing, but what you do that you are not paid for that is the key to the position above you. This is almost invariably the case. The service you render which you are not obliged to give is the thing that attracts your employer.—Orison Sweet Marden in Chicago Daily News.

Thermometer Deterioration.

Even thermometers become old, and consequently inaccurate with age, mercurial instruments reading too high and spirit instruments too low. In the former case the bulb appears to shrink thus forcing the quicksilver too far up the stem. This gradual shrinkage is supposed to be due to the fact that the external pressure on the bulb may be considerably higher than the internal pressure, the air as far as possible having been removed before the glass is sealed. On the other hand, the spirit thermometer is sealed with the bulb covered in a freezing mixture, in order to lock up in the glass as much air as possible. The instrument thus starts with the internal pressure which in time appears to be reduced either by expansion of the glass under the internal pressure or by leakage.—Scientific American.

Organized to Fight Plant Pests.

The Plant Protection Institute is the name of a body formed recently for the purpose of waging relentless war on the pests that afflict field and orchard crops, shade trees and ornamental plants. This it will do by supporting and directing scientific research, by fostering co-operation between investigators and manufacturers of insecticides, fungicides, apparatus, etc., used in this work of extermination.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Heartless Landlords.

Jean Valjean's ultimate housing recourse may interest the desperate of today: "I lay down in the dog kennel, and the dog bit me." And so even before Victor Hugo there were heartless landlords.—Brooklyn Eagle.

At present practically the whole of the $500,000,000 tons which Argentina consumes each year is imported, but a large and conveniently located deposit has been recently discovered in that country.

Her Status.

"Is Mrs. Wiggins really a kleptomaniac?"
"No, she don't belong to none of these new-fangled sects. She's a good old hardshell Baptist."

Earning a Decoration.

"Why did the King of Cabool give you a medal?"
"I gave him one last year," explained the Shah of Poobosh.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

FRANCE'S SURPLUS OF GIRLS

Overwhelming Preponderance of Babies Born to Wives of War Veterans Are of Female Sex.

French physicians see in the nervous reaction following the trials and perils of war the explanation of the epidemic of girl babies which has swept France in the last year.

They base their conclusion on the remarkable fact that, while over 80 per cent of the children recently born to men who served under fire are girls, 50 per cent of the babies of war veterans, soldiers and men physically weak for combatant service have been girls.

Biologists looking into the future
predict that if the present disproportional female birthrate continues over half of the girls born in France in 1919 and 1920 will be doomed to sterility. The proportion of young and middle-aged married men in France who saw no service on the front is so small that the boy babies born in their families are outnumbered more than two to one by the infant daughters of the war veterans.

While at a loss to explain the workings of the mysterious influence pre-determining the sex of the children born to ex-soldiers, French physicians agree that the relaxation of men's nerves, suddenly relieved from the high tension of constant perils and hardships, is at the bottom of the pu-zling question.

So long as the war continued and men remained keyed to a high nervous pitch their children were more often boys than girls. Sixty-five per cent of soldiers' babies born during the war were boys. Now that the hectic days of shot and shell are over the population of gravity has swung to the other extreme, and the pages of France's birth registers are filled largely with names of new-born girl babies.—

HELP TO FILL FAMILY PURSE

In City of Johnstown, N. Y., Three-quarters of the Wives Are in Gainful Occupations.

In a survey of family incomes in nearly one hundred cities of the United States, the department of labor found that in Johnstown, N. Y., three-quarters of the wives earn money.

The Labor Review explains that this remarkable condition prevails in Johnstown because glove-making is the principal industry there and furnishes work which women can do at home.
This appeals to them, because they are able to earn good wages without leaving their household.

In almost one-sixth of the New York city homes visited women contributed earnings toward the support of the home. In Boston, one wife out of ten works; in Buffalo one in twenty-eight; in Cleveland and Cincinnati one in seven, and in Pittsburgh only one in fifty. It is interesting to note that investigators found that a surprisingly large percentage of town dwellers derive some income from gardens and poultry. Ninety-three per cent of those visited in Cleveland had a garden or chickens.

Fresh Eggs.

The perky corner of a grocery in East Twenty-fifth street, is nothing if not good at repartee.

The other day, a clerk in the forenoon one of the good wives in the neighborhood stopped into the store and inquired:

"Any real fresh eggs?" (Great emphasis on the "real" word.)

"Oh, yes, ma'am," replied, "Some just laid this morn'g."

A day or two later, somewhat earlier in the forenoon, than before, the good wife again dropped in the store and inquired:

"Any more of those real fresh eggs?"

Whereupon the clerk replied to his client:

"Run to the back room, boy, and see if this morning's eggs are cool enough yet to sell."—Indianapolis News.

A famous old mulberry tree in North years ago it is said the American Declaration of Independence was first read in that country, has fallen under the weight of its age. American boy scouts attending the international scout conference in London visited the tree only a few days before it crashed and its history was told to 300 of them who had their photographs taken beneath its branches. The tree stood on one of the lawns of the Mild-may conference hall. Many religious leaders have addressed meetings under its ample shade. Hundreds of requests for chips from the historical tree are being received.

No Great Harm Done.

Juanita, knowing that her playmate
Jack wanted a kitten, picked one up one day when it suited to follow her and, taking it over to Jack, said it to him for five pennies.

"Juanita," said her mother, on finding out what she had done, "don't you know you have no right to sell or even give away a kitten that isn't your own?"

"Well," said the young business woman, "I guess it can go home when it gets ready, can't it?"

Immersion Heater.

An exceedingly practical contrivance for a mother is an electrical immersion heater, cylinder shaped. This will heat water or milk for the baby plunged into the liquid and the plug your cold while in the first stages.

Krew-Pina is a pleasant household ointment that will not blister the skin.
It relieves rapidly wherever it is used
and is splendid for coughs, colds, croup, tonsillitis and bronchitis. Sore, aching feet are soothed and comforted by an application of Krew-Pina. Asthma, pleurisy, headache and neuralgia are speedily relieved. Sore joints and muscles, sunburn and insect bites respond quickly to one application. Eczema, cuts, burns and bruises vanish under Krew-Pina. Relieves eczema and draws pain from sore throats. Splendid too for sprains, chilblains, hay fever, stiff neck, cold sores, whooping cough and many other minor ailments that beset the average family.

Krew-Pina is excellent for the little hurts of the children as it affords instant relief to pain and soreness. Used for croup, it relieves the congestion, stops the coughing and the little one passes peacefully to sleep. A jar should be kept in the medicine cabinet of every family.

TIBETAN DEAD NOT BURIED

After Slicing Away the Flesh the Bones Are Pulverized and Then Fed to the Vultures.

To bury bodies in the earth is to contaminate them, is the Tibetan view, according to Rev. D. F. McGillicuddy, pastor of St. Stephen's church, of Worcester, Mass., who penetrated this forbidden country in 1906.

Instead of burying their dead they slice the flesh from all bodies and feed it to the birds. After skillfully cutting away the flesh they pulverize the bones and feed them to the vultures.

The temples used by these people for centuries are still standing. In front of many of them are stumps of trees covered with butter, in which devotees stick their offerings of coins.

Tibet is peopled by a branch of the Mongolian race. The 2,000,000 or 3,000,000 population are a mixture of Chinese and Tibetans, as the races intermarried. They believe in both polyandry and polygamy.

It is the most extensive elevated country in the world, containing 750,000 square miles, with an elevation varying from 5,000 to 14,000 feet. Its climate is principally bleak and cold, although the summers in the southern part are mild and pleasant.

The first white man to enter Lhasa, the capital, was Sir Francis Younghusband, who fought his way there in 1904.

Dalai Lama, religious head of the Buddhist faith, which is the national religion, was so overcome by the fact that invaders had trodden the streets of the forbidden city, that he fled the country, and was for many years a wanderer in northern China.

BOOK MANY CENTURIES OLD

New Testament in Manuscript, Marvelously Preserved, Was Brought to New York From Armenia.

One of the oldest New Testament manuscripts in the world, and the oldest, so far as is known, in the United States, was brought from Europe by John Hahn, a Hungarian. A dozen or more full-page colored illustrations of incidents in the life of Jesus begin the volume. These are followed by two pages of historical data and several more comprising a calendar.

Little is known of the history of this ancient Testament. A brief account of its later adventures is given in the center of the book, written in modern Armenian by Jezekiel Arshaguni, who, in 1895, wrote what he knew of its story. During the reign of Abdul Hamid, when the Turks were persecuting the Armenian people, pillaging homes, demolishing chapels and carrying away all the books, this volume was saved because it was hidden in water, doubtless in a well, until the danger had passed. The book was equal to the test. The ink stayed fast and the parchment firm. Only the red leather cover was loosened from the canvas back, showing its wooden foundation and a scrap of silk lining.

Employed Two Parachutes.

Though the design and operation of parachutes have been the subject of practical experiments since the eighteenth century, the American air service is the first, it is believed, to test the action and interaction of parachutes used in pairs, says Popular Mechanics Magazine. In experiments performed at Mitchell field, Long Island, N. Y., a sergeant strapped one parachute on his back, as usual, and a second on his chest. Thus encumbered, he was carried, in a two-seater plane, to a height of approximately one mile. Here he walked out on a wing, pulled the release of the rearward chute, and stepped into space. The white bag opened nicely, and he drifted down to within less than 1,000 feet. Here he pulled the second release, and the second parachute opened above him without entangling or interfering with the first.

Nobody, of course, expects a man to be eternally radiant with cheerfulness and wreathed in smiles. But people will not tolerate urbanity one day and grumpiness the next in perpetual alternation. People will not tolerate it because they do not have to. Pleasant friends who are more reliable in their manner are not difficult to find. There is no need of putting up with a "grinch."

Consequently the moody, instead of blaming others for their unpopularity, extraordinary, would far better reproach themselves. They are the ones with whom the fault lies, and until they overcome their moodiness they may rest assured that sorrow and unhappiness will be their portion. — H. Addington Bruce in Chicago Daily News.

Parrot a Brainy Bird

We may question the veracity of some of the parrot stories that are told by admiring owners, but we cannot doubt that the parrot is a bird with remarkable brain power. A bird will interpret the moods of those about it in a most uncanny way. A parrot known to the writer sometimes seems to know instantly when his mistress is amused, and will join in the laughter after a dinner-table joke with such spontaneity that any stranger might credit him with an accurate appreciation of the humor of the moment.

The Main Question.

"Sir, I came to ask you for your daughter's hand."
"Well, young man, how much are you prepared to put into it each month if I give it to you?"

Favored Sunday Sports

The vicar of St. Andrews, Whitehead, is by no means the first country clergyman to favor Sunday cricket. In his pamphlet of 1825 on the Sunday question Dickens told of a Sunday he had spent a few days before in a village 70 miles west of London. He was delighted in the evening to find the whole village at cricket. When he saw the old clergyman approaching, "I trembled for an angry interruption to the sport and was almost on the point of crying out to warn the cricketers. . . . What was my agreeable surprise to see the old gentleman standing at the style, with his hands in his pockets, surveying the whole scene with evident satisfaction. It was the clergyman who had established the whole thing; it was his field they played in, and it was he who had purchased the stumps, bats, ball and all."—London Chronicle.

Sunday School a Woman's Idea.

The credit of organizing the first Sunday school in the United States is claimed for a woman—Miss Sarah Colt, who died at her home in Paterson, N. J., in 1872, at the age of ninety years. Miss Colt's original idea was to teach the mill boys to read and write, and from this the school gradually grew into a means of exclusive religious instruction.

Basis of Success.

General education is the foundation upon which specialized vocational education can be built. The better foundation a building has, the better the superstructure. Boys and girls should receive as much general education as possible; in other words, should receive the regular public school education, for to leave or to prepare specially for a particular vocation.—Exchange.

HON. FRANK CRAVEN TAKEN BY DEATH

Frank Craven, aged 63 years, of Harrisburg, a former resident of California and for two terms a member of the state legislature, died on Wednesday at his home at the state capital.

At the time of his death Mr. Craven was employed as a special auditor and investigator in the bureau of accounts and expenditures in the auditor general's department of Pennsylvania, and had been located in Harrisburg for several years.

Mr. Craven was born in California July 25, 1857 and was educated in the public schools. Early in life he entered the railway mail service and followed that work for many years; later he was engaged in mercantile pursuits in California. For 20 years he was superintendent of buildings and grounds of the California Normal, leaving that work to accept a position at Harrisburg.

He was elected to the state legislature from this county in 1904 and re-elected in 1906. During his last term he introduced the county location bill, which bore his name. He was the floor leader of the conference forces during the session. His advocacy of local option resulted in his defeat for re-election in 1908. He was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church and was active in its work. He is survived by his wife and two daughters, Mrs. C. H. Drum of California and Miss Kate Craven at home.

The body was brought to California and funeral services were held this afternoon at 2 o'clock, in the Methodist Episcopal church, interment following in Highland cemetery.

YOUNG LADIES ENTERTAIN MOTHERS

The Young Ladies' Circle of the First Presbyterian church entertained in honor of their mothers last evening, at the home of Miss Edith Hopkins, Meadow avenue. Halloween schemes were carried out in decorations and a pleasing program was carried out, as follows: Piano solo, Miss Sara Might; dream, Miss Lottie Kurpjuweit; reading, Miss Grace Anderson; duet, Mrs. Ralph Hickley and Mrs. Jack Hewlett; circulator, Miss Florence Clark; song, Young Ladies' Circle. At the conclusion of the program a four-course dinner was served, when favors were exchanged and a pleasant hour spent in games and music. About fifty members and guests were present.

A number of drivers of coal trucks were notified by the police to appear at the Burgess' office in the borough building, last evening, to answer a charge of overloading and allowing coal to spill from their trucks on to the street. As Burgess Woodward could not be present last evening, the hearing was adjourned until the same hour this evening.

Our meat department is the busiest in town. There is a reason. We sell good boiling beef 3 pounds for 21 cents. Markovitz 901 Meadow avenue. 112-41

The country is neither at war nor at peace. But it is at "attention." Just watch it on the 2nd of November.

Maybe the Chicago landlord who charged rents ten per cent. and promised another cut in May is a candidate for Mayor.

Straw votes may not accomplish definite results, but they do indicate the direction of the wind. Governor Cox should take notice.

Autocracy has come to an end in Europe. It will receive its death blow in this country November 2.

The Jewish Calendar.
Our year 1920 is the year 5680 of the Jewish calendar. The Jewish era begins from the creation, 3760 years and three months before the commencement of the Christian era. The Jewish year consists of either twelve or thirteen months of twenty-nine or thirty days. The civil year commences with the month Tishri, immediately after the new moon following the autumnal equinox; the ecclesiastical year begins with Nisan. The year 5680 began September 25, 1919.

Frog Slept Seven Years.
After lying dormant for seven years in the solid concrete of a sewer manhole in Lodi, Cal., a frog took an hour's sunbath and then hopped away, according to the foreman of a gang of laborers repairing the streets there. The duration of the frog's long sleep is determined by the fact that the manhole was constructed seven years ago and had not been disturbed until torn out during the recent reconstruction work.

MEMBERS WILL GO TO RESERVATION

A number of members of the Charleroi Rod and Gun Club, an organization recently formed here, will leave on Sunday for their reservation near Benzetta, Elk county, where they will spend several days in fitting up their new club house and in hunting.

The organization some time ago purchased a farm of about 600 acres in that locality adjoining property of the Charleroi Mountain Club on which there is a fine nine-room house with all necessary farm buildings. A fine orchard is one of the features while a splendid spring of water gives them an abundant supply for all purposes. About fifty acres of the farm is fine bottom land, bordering on the creek which flows through the property, in which stream fine fishing is to be found in season. A fine beach is also an attractive feature.

Many of the members who leave on Sunday will go by automobile, while others will follow later in the week by train.

A car load of furniture and equipment was shipped from Charleroi on the 7th of the month, and it is expected to arrive at its destination not later than Tuesday next. The members who go Sunday will be on hand to unload the car and put all the furniture and equipment in its proper place.

AMERICAN WOMEN DOING FULL SHARE FOR THE COUNTRY

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, Wife of Republican Nominee, Praises
Her Sex.

DISCUSSES HIGH LIVING COSTS

Declares in an Interview That Present High Prices Can Be Reduced by Votes.

By Estelline Bennett.

Mrs. Coolidge sat in a day coach on a slow local train between Boston and Northampton and talked about her husband, her children, the high cost of living and the domestic problem. The conductor and the brakeman stopped as they went through the car to talk to her. She had made friends with them in her frequent journeys back and forth to keep in touch with her children in school in Northampton and her husband at his duties in the state capital. She knitted diligently as she talked. During those trips she knits all the winter stockings and sweaters for her two boys—John, aged four, and Calvin, twelve.

"Too many people are afraid of work," she thinks is the fundamental reason for the high cost of living and the much discussed domestic problem.

"I think the only thing the women of the country can do now," she said, with the quiet conviction of one who has thought it all out, "is to vote for the men whom they think will make the right laws and see that they are enforced. They have done all they can in the home. I think the reason there is so much sugar on hand now is because people are doing without it in their homes."

Women Have Done Their Share.

"American women have done, and still are doing, their full share. They have sacrificed and saved and substituted and made over. But that isn't enough. They'll have to vote the high cost of living down."

"Here in New England, where it is a little hard for us to give up pie," she laughed at the tradition that has become a joke, "we have learned to use all kinds of cheaper substitutes for butter and lard, and in my own household we have experimented with different fruit combinations to find something we like and that will take the least sugar. Apples must be tart to make good pies, but we have found that blueberries take less sugar and the combination of apples and blueberries, half and half, is delicious. Requires less sweetening than apples and has more character than the blueberries alone."

Knows No Domestic Programs.

The domestic problem, which is closing homes all over the country and increasing the hotel population, is something of which Mrs. Coolidge thinks she has no personal, practical knowledge. She never keeps but one maid and she never has been without one. In the fifteen years of her married life she has had only two. The first one she inherited with the furnished house into which she and Mr. Coolidge moved when they were married and took with her when she moved. The second came when the first left to go and live with her sister.

There must be a reason for their staying, it was suggested to Mrs. Coolidge, and she thought possibly there were several. She thought the type of maid had something to do with it. Her's both have been American women old enough to have a sense of responsibility to their work and intelligent enough to respond to reasonable courteous treatment.

"A good many women who keep only one maid have trouble in their households because both mistress and maid, but chiefly the mistress, are afraid of work. A woman expects one maid to do the cooking and scrubbing and everything else and still be dressed up in black dress with white cap and apron, ready to answer the doorbell any minute. It isn't humanly possible. I always answer my doorbell myself. I do it for two reasons. In the first place, there is no one else, and, in the second, I like to greet my friends at the door myself."

Have Home Orchestra.

Mrs. Coolidge is of medium height, with brown hair, hazel eyes, that hold a good deal of merriment and a very quick sense of humor. At home she and her children have a little orchestra. Mrs. Coolidge plays the piano, John the violin and Calvin, after considerable discussion, in which he favored a bass drum, compromised on a banjo-mandolin. They play hymns and war songs usually—the hymns they learn in the Congregational church and Sunday School of Northampton. To avoid difficult and unfamiliar music because the object of the orchestra is entirely recreational and not educational. That is a part of Mrs. Coolidge's educational policy—that children should work when they work and play when they play and keep the two separate. That was why she sent her boys to the public schools of Northampton when they were five years old.

Every morning when she is in Northampton, Mrs. Coolidge takes her Boston bag and goes to market. If the neighbor next door is going Mrs. Coolidge goes with her in the car. Otherwise she walks. She has no domestic policy. She buys, she says, "what the family need and can afford."

Bluffing Among the Reptiles.
The ancient practice of bluffing is not limited to the human species. Various animals pretend to be worse than they are. The hog-nosed snake is a perfectly harmless little fellow, with no capacities in the way of poison, and yet this reptile, which is rather pretty, is given such sinister names as flat-headed adder and sand viper, and is usually killed on sight. This is because it has the habit of flattening its head and putting out its neck and hissing violently, which is for no other purpose than to frighten off intruders. It is a plain bluff, to give the impression that the reptile has poison fangs. This counterfeits is usually taken at its true value, and affords the hog-nosed snake considerable protection except in the case of human beings, who destroy the innocent reptile on sight, when it is not only harmless but useful also in keeping down vermin.

Chinese Jade.
Jade, known in India as "The Divine Stone," is becoming more popular as a luck bringer. According to old legends, jade has always been a very precious stone, and in China and India is said to possess a charm against evil. In India it is worn as an amulet to preserve the wearer from the bites of venomous animals. The Chinese jade is the most precious of all and very difficult to obtain, as the Chinese do not export much of it. This may be due to its rarity, but more probably it is because the stone, which they call "Quintessence of Heaven," is considered too precious to send out of the country because of the charm attached to it. There are many other kinds of jade and they can be bought for very reasonable sums, but nothing can equal the Chinese stone for color and transparency.

Inappropriately Named.

Christmas has furnished a name for some of the most desolate, tragic, malarious, or otherwise unpleasant places on the face of the globe. Christmas sound has amid the dismal, stormy horrors of Cape Horn, and Christmas Harbor is an equally cheerless spot in Kerguelen land. Of the three Christmas islands, one is a low atoll covered with guano; another lies off the ice-bound coast of Cape Breton, while the third is a forested, unhealthy islet which possesses only 40 inhabitants. Mounds on the Caribbean coast are called Castell Natividad, which means Christmas castle, and are said to be so named because the Welsh garrison of a castle that formerly stood there were surprised and massacred by Norse pirates while carousing on Christmas night.

Water Distillation in Desert.

In the hot desert of Chile there is a considerable amount of brackish water but no water that either human beings or stock can drink. Science, however, has come to the aid of this rainless section of the country in the form of an ingenious desert waterworks, consisting of a series of frames containing 20,000 square feet of glass. The panes of glass are arranged in the shape of a V, and under each pane is a shallow pan containing brackish water. The heat of the sun evaporates the water, which condenses upon the sloping glass, and, made pure by this operation, it runs down into little channels at the bottom of the canal. Nearly 1,000 gallons of fresh water is collected daily by this means.

Source of Bristles.

By far the greatest source of supply of bristles is the hog. China supplies more than any other country, and is followed by Russia, Germany, France and Belgium. Smaller and finer artists' brushes, etc., are made from the hair of other animals, such as the badger, goat, camel and sable. The better quality of bristles is obtained from pigs and wild boars inhabiting cold countries; the thinner the hog, the longer and stiffer the bristles. Before being made into brushes, the bristles must be carefully cleaned and sorted, and most of the operations of brush manufacture are now performed by machinery. The industry is carried on in various parts of this country.

Etherton, the home of Dr. William T. Morton, who discovered ether in this historic building, hence the name, has been torn down. Daniel Webster, Rufus Choate, and other leading men of the nation were entertained there nearly a century ago. Dr. Morton worked out his ether theory in his home with dogs, cats, birds and insects, and himself named his home "Etherton" because his discovery meant so much to the medical profession. At one time the doctor tried his ether on his wife's pet dog which, as a result, slept so long that he thought he had killed the animal.

Qualified.

A northern vicar, having advertised for an organist, received the following reply: "Dear Sir—I noticed you have a vacancy for an organist and music teacher, either lady or gentleman. Having been both for several years I beg to offer you my services."—Pearson's Weekly.

Rift in Love's Lute.

Another honeymoon has been spoiled. In making arrangements for the housekeeping money the young woman found the engagement ring had been left on the installment plan.

SPOON IN FAVOR WITH TURKS

Subjects of the Sultan Have Little Use for the Fork as a Table Utensil.

According to figures compiled by the American Cutlery bureau of information, the average yearly requirements of Constantinople before the war in the way of cutlery were 50,000 dozens of table knives, 30,000 dozens of spoons, 20,000 dozens of forks, 50,000 dozens of scissors, 27,000 dozens of razors of all kinds and 5,000 dozens of hair clippers.

As will be seen, much more spoons are sold than forks, which is contrary to the experience in other countries where, as a rule, more forks are required than spoons. This is explained by the fact that Constantinople supplies great quantities of cutlery to Asia Minor and other outlying regions of the former Turkish empire, where table manners still have not been developed up to the standard of Paris.

The Arab is fond of the spoon, because it is handy in eating his cereals, but he prefers to deal with chopsticks by way of the fingers, which is a more simple procedure than piercing one's eye with a fork.

So it is the spoon that stands on the top of the list of the cutlery orders coming from Turkey to Uncle Sam. It is conceded in all foreign countries today that American table cutlery holds the center of the stage in point of quality.

PUT HUBBY IN BAD LIGHT

Matter of Mistaken Identity Promised to Make Things Warm for Entirely Innocent Man.

A certain resident of Indianapolis, who is one of twins, in company with his wife and son, visited his twin brother, who lives in the northern part of the city. The family was returning home and had just reached Washington and Illinois streets when the wife saw the car, to which they were to transfer, rounding the corner.

"Oh, here comes our car," she said, and regardless of the conductor's familiar warning, "Wait till the car stops, lady," she jumped off backward, alighting with considerable force on the pavement. Refusing to give the car crew her name and address the family hurried home.

The next morning an auto stopped in front of the brother's home and an inspector, motorman, conductor and a policeman who had witnessed the mishap of the night before knocked on the door and asked the condition of the woman who had fallen. The brother's wife volunteered the information that no one there had fallen from a car. After an argument one of the car crew remarked, "Well, if some woman living here didn't fall off my car, then her husband was on with someone who did."—Indianapolis News.

Mongoose in Trinidad.

The mongoose was originally introduced into Trinidad from St. Lucia for the purpose of ridding the island of both rats and snakes, but at the present time it is itself considered a very serious pest. Moreover the sugar production of Trinidad has diminished somewhat during the last few years, chiefly because of the ravages of frog-hoppers, since the lizards, which formerly kept them in check, are being exterminated by the mongoose. In fact, many estate owners in Trinidad pay a shilling a head for every mongoose destroyed on their estates, and many thousands are destroyed every year without any attempt being made to save the skins. Consul Baker, therefore, suggests that possibly these mongoose skins might have considerable economic utility in the United States, and has forwarded a sample of such a skin to the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, where it may be examined by interested persons.

His Narrow Escape.

Clarence and his nurse were promenading along the veranda at the summer resort hotel. A woman stopped them to speak to the pretty child, and, on hearing how he had accidentally rolled down the hotel steps, was profuse in sympathetic exclamations. "O, dear! O, what a narrow escape!" etc. Clarence enjoyed her admiring sympathy so much that he added another flight of steps to the tumble when he related the episode to the next woman. By the time he reached the end of the veranda he had improved his story by rolling from the top floor of the hotel clear down to the steps outside the veranda, finishing off with:

"And I came near cracking my skull, too."

"I used to think I possessed the artistic temperament—the sacred fire, but I was mistaken. I'm just one among the millions of common people."

"You have no right to say that! You have done some splendid things—things that you could not possibly have done if you had merely been one among the millions of common people."

"No, you're mistaken. I'm just an ordinary every-day man. Why my wife has lived with me for 11 years without ever once thinking of getting a divorce!"

Scientific Research.

"Why are you studying those snails so intently?"
"Scientific research."
"Huh?"
"I don't think there could be anything slower than the snail I met yesterday."—Louisville Courier-Journal.
